

After graduating from UC Berkeley in 1997, earning a degree in Peace and Conflict Studies, Sara worked for several governmental and non-governmental agencies abroad. In 2001 Sara then moved to the Central Coast of California. At that time, Sara started her first winery called Kenneth-Crawford Wines while also attending Graduate School at Pepperdine University. In the years since, Sara & her husband have been blessed with two beautiful children. Sara ventured into a start-up consulting firm serving the Healthcare IT industry and started a second winery called Transcendence in Lompoc. Sara is currently back in graduate school at Pepperdine University, getting a Master's in Dispute Resolution. Sara believes in living a life that balances family, self, and business. Hopefully, her life is the culmination of her passions and life experiences—and the idea that her work can have meaning and make a positive impact.
